

WICO COMMAND
CONTROL™

Congratulations!

You have just purchased the finest trackball money can buy.

The arcade trackball comes to the home.

TRACKBALL OPERATING INSTRUCTIONS FOR ATARI®/COMMODORE/SEARS, TEXAS INSTRUMENTS, RADIO SHACK®, AND ODYSSEY® MODELS.

INSTALLATION: Your WICO Command Control trackball is designed for direct operational connection to the home video system specified. Simply connect the computer connection plug to the control port panel of your system. When AC power supply units are required (included with Radio Shack® TRS80®, Texas Instruments, and Odyssey® trackball units), connect the mini phone jack into the trackball unit and then plug the power supply unit into any convenient 110V AC wall socket. You are now ready to play the Command Control trackball.

OPERATION: For best results, your WICO Command Control trackball should always be positioned as shown at left, with the word "TOP" facing away from the player. Full 360 degree screen movement is provided by the phenolic ball – simply "roll" the ball forward, backward, left, right, or in any direction you want on-screen objects to move. The ball controls speed of on-screen objects, as well – the faster you move it, the faster the speed of the object.

FIRE BUTTON: The red fire button provides you with lightning-quick firepower at the touch of a finger.

NOTE: Operation of the WICO trackball with the Texas Instruments Computer requires the ALPHA LOCK key to be in the "off" position.

MEET THE ENTIRE COMMAND CONTROL LINE.

Any one makes a perfect gift.

Command Control was developed by WICO, the world's largest designer and manufacturer of control devices for commercial arcade games. If you've ever played an arcade video game, chances are you've used a WICO joystick or trackball. Now, the excitement and challenge of the arcade is yours at home.
